KIRK'S KORNER

Kirk's View from 30,000 feet over a beach!

Since we are in the middle of January 2025, I thought I would reflect on a warmer part of the country for this edition.

I had not vacationed at the beach (spending a lot of time in the mountains of Wyoming) until I was married and had two girls. My wife, growing up in North Carolina, had an affection for the beaches of the Carolinas. Once we started visiting the coastline it was hard not to go back year after year. One of my favorite beaches is Emerald Isle on the Crystal Coast area and this sleepy town comes alive in May through September every year. It is one of my favorite spots in the country!

This beach originated in 1920 when Henry Fort, who owned the land and beaches wanted to start a destination spot for tourists. It never really took off until 1951 when seven individuals purchased the 12-mile stretch of the island for $350,000. The parcel was divided up into 54 blocks of 1,000 feet each. The seven owners drew from a hat for ownership blocks. Their plan was to make it a very family orientated beach and limit commercial development. In 1960 ferry service began and things started to grow and take off.

Then in 1971 the Cameron Langston Bridge was built to provide better access to Emerald Isle. The bridge spans the intercoastal waterway and offers spectacular views of the Bogue Sound.

Wildlife is very prominent at Emerald Isle from dolphins to sharks, but my favorite is the sea turtles, which come back in May through September for nesting. Typically, there is a nest or two on the beach that is guarded and protected by volunteers to insure a safe departure for the hatchlings and their return to the ocean. I hope you have enjoyed this edition of KK! I also wanted to take a moment and thank all our customers for their business and allowing us to serve you in 2024! We strive daily to do the best job for you that we can, if you have any suggestions please do not hesitate to stop in or send me an email. Wishing everyone enormous success in 2025!
